

The Tarnished Six

The Tarnished Six is a traditional Dixieland jazz band. Formed in 1967, they have performed at Jazz festivals all across the country. Twice they have been invited to play at the prestigious Edinburgh Jazz Festival in Scotland.

Located in the State College area, they have performed at the Nittany Lion Inn after home football games for twenty-two years. Every first and third Friday since 1981, they have played at Hi-Way Pizza in State College.

Recently, in addition to other new tunes, they have added arrangements for Dixieland band and symphony orchestra, a match waiting to happen. This group never lets the grass grow under their musical feet!

There will be a reception following each concert.

There is no admission charge, but a "free will offering" will be received.

The Tarnished Six, a Dixieland jazz band that is both traditional and versatile, will keep your feet moving to their jazzy sounds.

Keystone Band of Rehrersburg

This well-known local band was formed in 1888, playing continuously for 124 years. The group consists of versatile musicians from all works of life.

The band is committed to maintaining a tradition of service and education to the local communities through music. To this end they have played in many different venues in the area.

A showcase piece in their repertoire for the St. Andrews concert will be the Finale movement of the Saint-Saens Organ Symphony. Our own organist, Lisa Meyer, will be featured in this piece.

Chamber Singers

Mark Naimoli, Director

The Lebanon High School Chamber Singers have been in existence since 1992 and features students from many different backgrounds and academic pathways. They sing a challenging repertoire of a capella and accompanied music. In 2006, they were the featured choir in historic Bruton Parish Church's Candlelight Concert Series in Colonial Williamsburg. In 2007, they were one of three featured high school choral groups honored at the Pennsylvania Music Educators Associations Annual State Conference.

Mark Naimoli is a graduate of Lebanon Valley College. He is in his first year as Choral Director at Lebanon High School after having directed at Lebanon Middle School for a number of years.
